

To Whom It May Concern,

This letter is to serve as a reference for Joe Ward and Josh Burton - Project Managers for Legend Exteriors and Construction.

During the summer of 2006, we had the storm damage on our home repaired (roof, siding and gutters). Joe Ward and Josh Burton were the managers assigned to our home. These two individuals handled every aspect of the project with ease; from the initial inspection of the damage with our insurance company, all the way through to the completion of the project.

They were always accessible and dependable, whether they were dropping off color samples, providing scheduling updates, checking on the workers progress each day (by physically viewing the job site), or promptly returning a phone call. The daily communication was appreciated.

With so many construction companies around, it's rather difficult to identify who you should trust. Many people rely on other homeowners' experiences when making their decision. We can honestly say that Joe Ward and Josh Burton are not only skilled and reputable, but more importantly, trustworthy. We have referred many of our friends and neighbors to them.

These individuals take pride in their work and their company name. They have the highest standards set for their performance, as well as their construction crews. You would be impressed by their hard work, dedication, and professionalism.

Sincerely,

Dawn and Jason Siegel
